

Websites for English practice for EAL learners:

- a) The British Council learn English Kids - designed for parents to use with their children to support them learning English: <https://learnenglishkids.britishcouncil.org/>
- b) The British Council Learn English teens: <https://learnenglishteens.britishcouncil.org/> as above but for older children, more confident in English
- c) Agenda Web - loads of options for young and old; grammar, reading, listening and songs: www.agendaweb.org
- d) Let's Have Fun With English - vocabulary board games online: <http://www.letshavefunwithenglish.com/games.html>
- e) Games to Learn English - lots of free online games to practice grammar and vocabulary: <https://www.gamestolearnenglish.com/>
- f) Fun English Games - lots of fun educational games for practising English: <http://www.funenglishgames.com/>
- g) ABCya - fun games for English and Maths: <https://www.abcya.com/>
- h) Oxford Owl - The website has ebooks, plus practical reading, grammar & maths activities: <https://www.oxfordowl.co.uk/>
- i) Teach Your Monster To Read: Learning to read website. You can register for free on a computer and work through reading activities: <https://www.teachyourmonstertoread.com/>
- j) Topmarks - Free online games (choose the subject from the dropdown list): <https://www.topmarks.co.uk/>
- k) Arc Academics - free online English learning games (the website also offers Maths games): https://www.arcademics.com/games?subject=language_arts
- l) For stories to read in L1:
 - i/ Real world stories: <https://worldstories.org.uk/>
 - ii/ International digital children's library: <http://www.childrenslibrary.org/icdl/SimpleSearchCategory?ilang=English>

The Bell Foundation website has advice for parents that can be translated into over one hundred languages (select language tab on top right of page): <https://ealresources.bell-foundation.org.uk/parents>